NSM at 25 and Beyond: Solid and Responsive Philippine Statistical System in Support of Globalization and Regional Economic Integration

Ang NSM sa Ika-25 Taon at Higit:
Matatag at Nakatutugong Sistemang Pang-estadistika ng Pilipinas bilang
Pagtaguyod sa Globalisasyon at Integrasyong Pang-ekonomiya ng Rehiyon

The country is currently confronted with emerging concerns as reflected in the Midterm Update of the Philippine Development Plan (PDP) for 2011-2016, the challenges in achieving the Millennium Development Goals (MDGs), as well as the new Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs). Thus, official statistics that meet the standards of quality and comparability has never been more important for national development planners and decision-makers to assess our performance vis-à-vis our targets and where our nation stands with others.

In the Southeast Asian region, the Philippine Statistical System (PSS) has gained recognition in the statistical community for its long-standing commitment of public service through its efforts to innovate and to enhance the reliability of statistics despite resource constraints. With the country's participation in the incipient ASEAN regional economic integration by 2015, the PSS – led by the newly-established Philippine Statistics Authority (PSA) – must thus build stronger partnerships with its stakeholders and reach greater heights in improving the integrity and objectivity in statistical data production, compilation and communication mechanisms. This will enable the PSS to better represent the status of the nation and accordingly respond to the monitoring needs of the Philippine government and the private sector.

Thus, for the 25th year celebration of the National Statistics Month this October 2014, the theme focuses on the PSA's vision of a solid and responsive PSS that meets the data and information needs of the Filipino society facing both opportunities and issues brought by globalization and regional economic integration. With a cohesive direction from the PSA, the continuing efforts of the PSS shall be better harmonized and streamlined to exemplify efficiency in the management and use of public resources, dedication and improved capacity of the statistical workforce enough to adapt to the evolving information demands of the globalizing economy. The theme also highlights the collective role of the PSS in providing, managing and communicating objective statistics that will ultimately guide Filipinos towards reaping the optimal benefits from regional integration.

MESSAGE

My warmest greetings to the Philippine Statistics Authority as you lead the observance of the 25th National Statistics Month.

Understanding the state of our nation entails an awareness of our people's realities: A grasp of their abilities, their potential, and the aspirations that move us as a collective. Statistics is a tool that enables our government to ground our policy and program reforms in data that accurately represent the unique circumstances of our countrymen.

The recommendations of our most able statisticians gain further prominence as we shift towards a politically cohesive and economically integrated ASEAN. In 2015 will come the expansion of markets and a shift in development framework: We shall chart our growth in a rapidly-evolving milieu and apply a roadmap that keeps in stride with the opportunities of our times. The responsiveness and precision of our figures will be vital to the success of our bid to become a strong regional competitor. May your discipline grow and effectively inform our nation's strategy as we move towards an even more inclusive and prosperous tomorrow.

Before us lies the promise of sustained resurgence: Let us remain earnest in our goals, undeterred by the challenges of a globalized world, and impassioned by the equitable progressive future we are now approaching.

NATIONAL ECONOMIC AND DEVELOPMENT AUTHORITY

MESSAGE

The onset of the Association of Southeast Asian Nations (ASEAN) Economic Community (AEC) brings the country to a new milieu wherein economic growth and national prosperity will be influenced by free movement of goods, services, investments, labor and capital flow within the region.

This incipient integration presents both opportunities and challenges to our country. Uncertainties in light with our country's increased openness to trade and participation in information and cultural exchange behoove us to be vigilant about the changes in key development indicators. The country's statistical system plays a very important role in providing useful information to enable us to keenly track our national progress vis-à-vis the performance of our neighbors. Keeping track of developments within and outside the country will greatly help us make appropriate and timely interventions and adjustments to realize the opportunities and to deal with the challenges that an integrated Southeast Asia brings.

As Chairperson of the Philippine Statistics Authority and Secretary of Socioeconomic Planning, I wish to congratulate the Philippine Statistical System for organizing the 25th National Statistics Month with its "NSM at 25 and Beyond: Solid and Responsive Philippine Statistical System in Support of Globalization and Regional Economic Integration." I would like to thank the men and women of the PSS who unwaveringly collect, process, interpret, disseminate and ensure the credibility of official statistical information. The kind of public service you provide is certainly valuable.

I am confident that with sound, relevant and timely statistics we will achieve our national development goals within the larger context of an integrated region.

Mabuhay tayong lahat!

PHILIPPINE STATISTICS AUTHORITY

MESSAGE

October is always an exciting month for the Philippine Statistical System. This year, we celebrate a milestone with the first founding anniversary of the Philippine Statistics Authority (PSA) and the 25th year of the National Statistics Month (NSM).

The year's theme is "NSM at 25 and Beyond: Solid and Responsive Philippine Statistical System in Support of Globalization and Regional Economic Integration." This reflects my vision for the PSA to be solid and responsive amidst the changing landscape of the global and regional economy. The establishment of the Association of Southeast Asian Nations Economic Community (AEC) next year will usher a new economic era for the country. This consequently provides an impetus for us, official statisticians, to be responsive and proactive in meeting the statistical demands of an interlinked financial system and an integrated production and market base within the region.

Statistical information is increasingly occupying the center stage of policymaking as it provides better understanding of the socioeconomic issues and challenges that confront our country. While we remain steadfast in our commitment to provide timely, accurate and relevant statistics needed for our national development strategies and policies, we need to supply the emerging statistical requirements for this regional integration process not only to ensure its success but more importantly to bring its benefits to our people.

On behalf of the 25th NSM Steering Committee and the PSA, I am extending our deepest gratitude to all our partners through the years for your unwavering support to the annual celebration of the NSM. Let us build together a solid and responsive statistical system for a better and prosperous Philippines and Southeast Asia.

Mabuhay!

BANGKO SENTRAL NG PILIPINAS

MESSAGE

It is a pleasure for the Bangko Sentral ng Pilipinas to be part once again of the annual celebration of the National Statistics Month (NSM). The Philippine statistical community reaches an important milestone this year as we celebrate 25 years of promoting the importance of economic and social statistics in policy-making and nation-building.

The theme for this year's NSM celebration – "NSM at 25 and Beyond: Solid and Responsive Philippine Statistical System in Support of Globalization and Regional Economic Integration" rightly focuses on how the statistical community can improve its current set of macroeconomic indicators to help strengthen regional integration policies. Globalization has increased rapidly in recent years. This has spurred a massive increase not only in the volume, but also in the efficiency of trade in goods and services as well as the flow of labor and capital across borders.

Trade gains are one of the major advantages of globalization. However, regional integration not only encompasses economic interdependence, but also political, social, and cultural linkages. It is therefore important to measure the depth and breadth of regional integration and its impact on the individual country's economic growth and development by having timely and reliable statistics such as trade, cross-border capital flows, and labor migration. To maximize the benefits to the country of regional integration, the BSP continues to deliver on its mandate of price and financial stability by calibrating macroeconomic policies to ensure that the business environment remains conducive to investments. The BSP also supports the liberalization and integration of regional financial markets in line with the creation of the ASEAN Economic Community (AEC). Under the AEC Blueprint, the ASEAN seeks to achieve a well-integrated and smoothly functioning regional financial system, characterized by more liberalized capital account regimes and capital markets. The Philippines remains committed to this initiative by participating in financial services liberalization through banking integration. While regional integration is seen to increase economic growth, it is also seen to potentially increase the risk of contagion. This is the reason why surveillance mechanisms, which are strongly grounded on economic and financial statistics, must be in place to shield financial institutions against potential vulnerabilities. On the part of the BSP, it continues to engage banks and other financial entities to focus on policy cooperation aimed at promoting price and financial stability.

Indeed, we recognize that statistics is one of the most important foundations of sound economic and social policies. It is an honor to work with all our hard-working colleagues in the statistical community. In behalf of the BSP, we thank everyone who has given his full support in helping promote the social importance of statistics. Congratulations to all of us!

Mabuhay!

The National Statistics Month In Retrospect

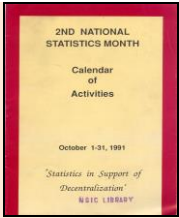

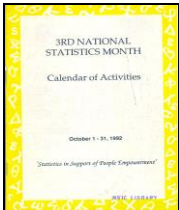

The National Statistics Month In Retrospect

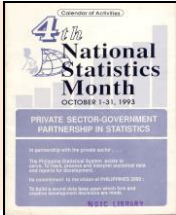

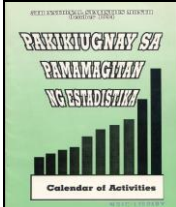

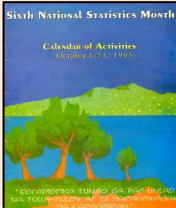

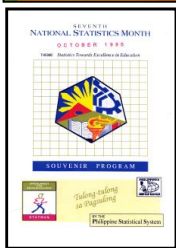

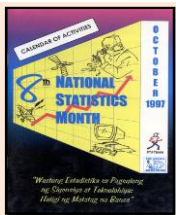

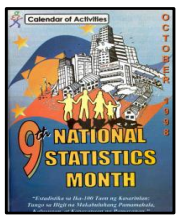

The National Statistics Month (NSM) was first observed in 1990 pursuant to Presidential Proclamation No. 647 signed by then President Corazon C. Aquino on September 20, 1990, Declaring the Month of October Every Year as the National Statistics Month. It was a significant milestone in the history of the Philippine Statistical System (PSS) as the proclamation gave recognition to the pivotal and crucial role of statistics in policy formulation, planning and decision making in both the government and private sectors. The annual observance of the NSM was perceived as a vital step in promoting, enhancing and instilling nationwide awareness and appreciation of the value of statistics in the different sectors of Philippine society. The NSM was further envisioned as a vehicle for insuring the support of the general public in improving and enhancing the quality and standard of statistics in the country.

Since 1990, the observance of the NSM in October has become a tradition in the PSS that is widely participated by national government agencies, local government units, the academe, and private institutions. The event has progressively become a showcase of unity and cooperation among the members of the PSS in promoting their products and services as well as in recognizing emerging issues, developments and other challenges faced by the system. The celebration of the NSM has likewise been made relevant by highlighting a thematic focus in the activities undertaken each year.

The programs and activities for the celebration are drawn up by the different government departments and offices, academic and research institutions, and private sector organizations down to the local levels.

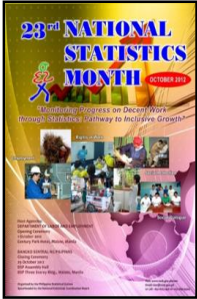

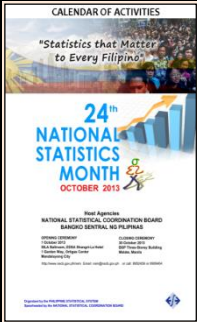

The observance of the NSM features a variety of activities, such as exhibits; statistical contests; conduct of trainings, seminars, workshops, symposia, conferences; and IEC activities. Below is a retrospective glance at the past twenty three years, which focuses on the themes and host agencies.

OPENING REMARKS

25th National Statistics Month Opening Ceremony
Bayview Park Hotel, Manila
1 October 2014, 1:00 PM to 5:00 PM

By

LISA GRACE S. BERSALES, PhD

National Statistician

Philippine Statistics Authority

Good Afternoon.

It is my pleasure to welcome you all to the Opening Ceremonies of the 25th National Statistics Month (NSM)!

October has always been an exciting and busy month for the Philippine Statistical System because of the NSM. This year's celebration is a milestone because it is the 25th year of the NSM and because we have just celebrated the first founding anniversary of the Philippine Statistics Authority (PSA).

The year's theme is "NSM at 25 and Beyond: Solid and Responsive Philippine Statistical System in Support of Globalization and Regional Economic Integration." This reflects my vision for the PSA to be solid and responsive amidst the changing landscape of the national, regional and global economy.

At the national level, there is an increasing demand for statistical information to support evidence-based policymaking for inclusive growth. Our country with its stellar economic growth in the past years is considered as one Asia's brightest spots. Despite this, there are still problems, challenges and uncertainties that we face. Statistics can help solve these challenges and shed light on these uncertainties. Incidentally, I would also like to take this opportunity to announce that next year, the 2015 Mid-decade Census of Population will be conducted. As such, we would like to enjoin everyone to partake in, and to advocate this very important endeavour.

Regionally, the establishment of the Association of Southeast Asian Nations Economic Community (AEC) in 2015 will usher a new economic era for the country. This consequently provides an impetus for us, official statisticians, to be responsive and proactive in meeting the statistical demands of an interlinked financial system and an integrated production and market base within the region.

Globally, the reckoning of the Millennium Development Goals (MDGs) is scheduled next year. We therefore need to ramp up efforts to monitor and evaluate our country's MDG progress. Preparations for the post-2015 development goals, or the so-called Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs), are now underway. These new goals will build upon the MDGs and converge with the post 2015 development agenda.

Having said all these, it is evident that statistical information is increasingly occupying the center stage of policymaking as it provides better understanding of the socioeconomic issues and challenges that confront our country, our region and our world. While we remain steadfast in our commitment to provide timely, accurate and relevant statistics needed for our national development strategies and policies, we also need to supply the emerging statistical requirements for this regional integration process not only to ensure its success but more importantly to bring its benefits to our people.

On behalf of the 25th NSM Steering Committee and the PSA, I am extending our deepest gratitude to all our partners through the years for your unwavering support to the annual celebration of the NSM as well as to our development partners like the UN, the World Bank, the Asian Development Bank and the Australian Government. Let us build together a solid and responsive statistical system for a prosperous Philippines, harmonious Southeast Asia and better world.

Mabuhay! Good afternoon!

KEYNOTE SPEECH

25th National Statistics Month Opening Ceremony
Bayview Park Hotel, Manila
1 October 2014, 1:00 PM to 5:00 PM

By

Dr. ARSENIO M. BALISACAN

Director-General, National Economic and Development Authority,
Secretary for Socioeconomic Planning, and Chairperson, Philippine Statistics Authority Board

National Statistician Lisa Grace Bersales, Interim Deputy National Statisticians Lina Castro, Romeo Recide and Paula Monina Collado, Executive Director Zita Villa Juan-Albacea of the Philippine Statistical Research and Training Institute (PSRTI), friends and stakeholders of the Philippine Statistical System; colleagues from the government, friends from the academe, international organizations, private sector and the media, ladies and gentlemen, good morning.

It is my pleasure to speak before you in this milestone celebration of the 25th National Statistics Month (NSM). I congratulate the Philippine Statistics Authority (PSA) for leading the Philippine Statistical System's (PSS) efforts to improve the responsiveness of official statistics to policy and data users' needs. Your constant rally for the correct and effective use of official statistics has notably extended from the decision-makers to the general public. Your yearly highlights of sectoral statistics through the annual observance of the NSM, coordination of statistical conferences, and the triennial conduct of the National Convention on Statistics (NCS) have paved the way for increased consciousness on the information needs in critical sectors. These reflect the shifts in private and public, and national and local development planning priorities.

I would also like to express my appreciation of the statistical advocacy contributions of the different agencies, which previously hosted the various annual celebrations of the NSM since its inception in 1990. With the resources that you have generously shared, the NSM has successfully promoted official statistics on sectors and concerns such as governance and decentralization, public-private partnership, environmental sustainability, tourism, education, S&T and innovation, energy and consumer awareness, micro-, small and medium enterprises (MSMEs), agricultural and fishery modernization, social protection, employment and decent work, peace and security, and statistical research.

To the Bangko Sentral ng Pilipinas (BSP), which has been hosting the closing ceremonies of the NSM since 2001, I'd like to thank you for your genuine and continuous support to the promotion for increased use of statistics. My appreciation also to the Philippine Statistical Association, Inc., for hosting the closing ceremonies from 1995 to 1999, and to the Department of Environment and Natural Resources (DENR) for partnering with the NSM Secretariat in the conduct of inter-agency tree-planting activities since 2006.

In 2004, NEDA hosted the opening ceremony for the observance of the 15th NSM with the theme “Rising beyond global challenges through quality Philippine statistics,” alongside the opening ceremonies for the 9th National Convention on Statistics, the International Conference on Official Poverty Statistics, the 2nd ASEAN Technical Group Meeting on Statistical Classifications, and the Statistical Information Management Exhibition.

This year, we have a similar theme that leads us to gauge what we have accomplished and how we fare compared to other countries in terms of our statistical endeavors. The theme is “NSM at 25 and beyond: Solid and responsive Philippine Statistical System in support of globalization and regional economic integration.”

Inevitably, the approaching deadline for achieving our national targets in line with the Millennium Development Goals (MDGs) and the incipient integration of economic and fiscal policies within the Southeast Asian region in 2015 require us in NEDA and all other policy watchers and development planners to keenly track our national progress vis-à-vis the performance of our neighbors. Uncertainties in light of our country’s increased openness to trade and participation in information and cultural exchange also compel us to be vigilant about the changes in key development indicators and direct us to think progressively in overcoming impending threats to the robust growth of our economy. Thus, official statistics that meet the standards of reliability and timeliness are indispensable, especially in the execution of our plans and programs.

The ASEAN integration will usher in both cooperation and competition. Thus, statistics will be our guide in verifying the relevance and sustainability of our current programs benefitting the nation. Similarly, good quality statistics will facilitate the identification of areas for further development, which will aid us in steering cohesive national and local-level direction for our people to reap the optimal gains from regional integration.

As an oversight agency tasked to monitor national development outcomes, NEDA has extensively made use of official statistics released by the PSA and other data producers to determine our targets and gauge the country’s performance in terms of these targets. Hence, we in NEDA support the initiative to update the Philippine Statistical Development Program for 2011-2017 cognizant of the ASEAN integration in 2015 and in line with the Updated Philippine Development Plan and current developments in the PSS structure.

In the past 25 years, we have seen various administrations with different strategic priorities but the challenges we face in development – poverty, unemployment, hunger, access to education, environmental degradation, among others – remain. Also constant is that these challenges have imposed the need to generate relevant statistical information.

In looking at the different faces of poverty in the country, for example, statistics have been key to better achieve the objectives of the Pantawid Pamilyang Pilipino Program (4Ps), our government's flagship program to reduce intergenerational poverty. In response to stakeholders' demands, more timely and frequent releases of poverty statistics using data from the Family Income and Expenditure Survey (FIES) and Annual Poverty Indicator Survey (APIS) have been started since December 2013 with the perseverance of the Technical Committee on Poverty Statistics (TCPovStat) and the technical staff of the PSA. Latest statistics show that in the first semester of 2013, poverty incidence among Filipinos was estimated at 24.9 percent, down from 27.9 percent in the same period in 2012.

The unification of the Bureau of Agricultural Statistics, Bureau of Labor and Employment Statistics, National Statistical Coordination Board, and National Statistics Office to form the PSA, signifies the start of bridging the information gaps and addressing the constant and evolving need for quality and timely statistical information. Moreover, the new structure moves for improving transparency in governance by reducing duplication of efforts and shortening the transaction time for statistical stakeholders.

Despite being plagued by the inadequacy of statistical human resources needed to address emerging concerns throughout the years, the Philippine Statistical System has performed well in general. In fact, it leads all other ASEAN Member States (excluding Brunei Darussalam and Singapore) in the statistical capacity rankings of the World Bank's Bulletin Board on Statistical Capacity (BBSC). I commend all the men and women in the PSS who have vigorously worked to sustain the country's reputable standing in the international statistical community.

Let me also acknowledge our development partners for helping realize this accomplishment, particularly the World Bank, through Dr. Karl Chua, for their overwhelming support to the advancement of statistical capacity in the Philippines and in assisting the PSA during its transition phase.

Again, I congratulate the PSA for this event, also for being among the top 10 government agencies according to the Makati Business Club's Executive Outlook Survey Rankings, and for celebrating its first year anniversary last September 12. I join you in your vision of a solid and responsive PSA, and I support your efforts in promoting efficiency and relevance in the delivery of statistical products and services. May this month-long observance of the NSM be a celebration of excellence, solidarity and camaraderie within the PSS geared towards producing world-class official statistics.

Good day everyone and Happy National Statistics Month!

ANNEXES

The Philippine Statistical System

The Philippine Statistical System (PSS) is a decentralized system consisting of the various statistical organizations at all administrative levels, its personnel, and the national statistical development programs. This includes all government departments, bureaus, agencies, and instrumentalities both at the national and local levels, and all government-owned and controlled corporations that are engaged in the conduct of statistical activities either as a major function or as part of their administrative and regulatory functions.

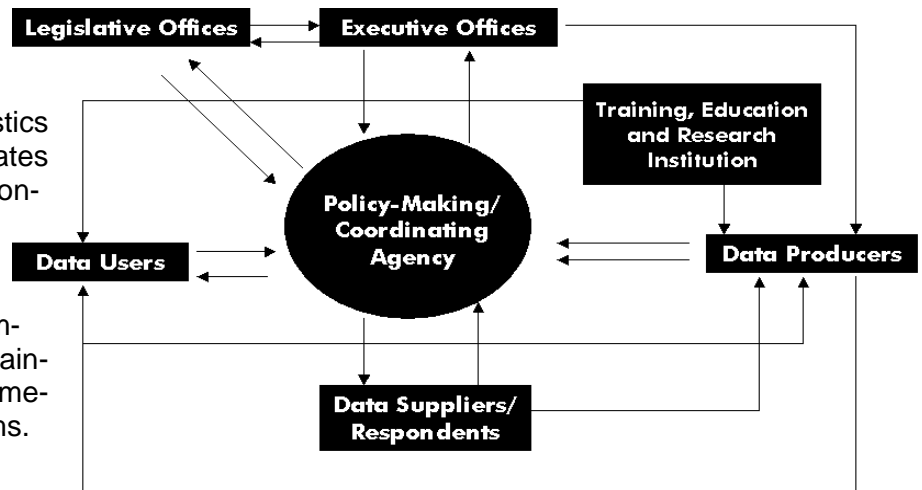

POLICY-MAKING AND COORDINATING BODY

The Philippine Statistics Authority (PSA) formulates policies, delineates responsibilities, sets priorities and standards on statistics and administers the one-stop statistical information centers. It also maintains multi-sectoral frameworks and indicator systems.

DATA PRODUCERS

The Philippine Statistics Authority (PSA) is authorized to collect, produce and communicate official statistics on the Philippine society and the economy. The PSA is a newly formed agency that merged the National Statistical Coordination Board (NSCB), National Statistics Office (NSO), Bureau of Labor and Employment Statistics (BLES) of the Department of Labor and Employment, and the Bureau of Agricultural Statistics (BAS) of the Department of Agriculture into one agency. It was established through Republic Act No. 10625 otherwise known as the Philippine Statistical Act of 2013 which was signed into law by President Benigno S. Aquino III on September 12, 2013. The law's Implementing Rules and Regulations took effect last December 29, 2013. Bangko Sentral ng Pilipinas (BSP) also serves as a key agency producing official statistics on balance of payments and other monetary and banking statistics.

In addition to the PSA and the BSP, other departments/agencies/units of the government also generate statistics as by-products of their primary functions.

STATISTICAL RESEARCH, EDUCATION AND TRAINING INSTITUTIONS

The Philippine Statistical Research and Training Institute (PSRTI) is mandated by the Republic Act No. 10625 (Philippine Statistics Act of 2013) to conduct research and training on statistical matters. Particularly, it conducts short-term courses in statistics and related fields and researches to enhance existing methodologies, concepts and systems used in statistical operations. PSRTI has been formerly known as the Statistical Research and Training Center (SRTC).

Meanwhile, the academe plays a critical role in developing supply of quality statisticians and promoting use of statistics in research and decision-making in the country.

DATA PROVIDERS/RESPONDENTS

Collection of data is done either thru conduct of sample surveys/censuses or collection of information from administrative reporting forms. Respondents can be individuals, households, business establishments/ enterprises, government or non-government institutions.

The National Statistics Month Awards

Search for Best NSM Activity and Region

To recognize outstanding participation in the NSM celebration and to encourage more participation in the NSM, the Search for Best NSM Activity and Region was launched. Specifically, the NSM Awards System was envisioned to serve as an incentive to participating individual and collective agencies in the observance of the NSM. It serves as a strategy for encouraging wider participation to the NSM celebration and promoting the conduct of activities that will further the objectives and spirit of the NSM celebration. The first NSM Awards were given during the opening ceremony for the 14th NSM celebration held in October 2003.

Staff of regional line agencies in Region I (Ilocos) celebrated the Opening Ceremony of the 22nd National Statistics Month by conducting a statistical forum on social protection. In 2008, Region I was declared a Hall of Fame Awardee for bagging the Best NSM Region Award for four (4) consecutive years.

ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

The Philippine Statistics Authority extends its utmost gratitude to all participating agencies and offices, both public and private, for their support and cooperation in realizing the celebration of the 25th National Statistics Month.

It is through their concerted efforts that the successful annual observance of the National Statistics Month for 25 years is made possible.

STATMAN

Official Mascot of the National Statistics Month

Each of the body parts of STATMAN, the mascot, represents a statistical symbol that is commonly used in statistical theory and its applications.

The Head symbolizes the sign 'Sigma (σ)' which is used to denote standard deviation or variations in human endeavors.

The Right Arm symbolizes the sign 'Sigma (Σ)' which is used to denote summation of society's dreams and aspirations.

The Left Arm and Torso, taken altogether, symbolizes the sign 'Chi Square (χ^2)' and is used to denote independence and objectivity of one's views and decisions while maintaining harmony with the government.

The use of the symbols as the body parts of STATMAN signifies coherence and unity between statistical theory and their various applications which include, among others, the generation, analysis and interpretation of data.

The picture depicted of the STATMAN in motion signifies the vision for and mission of the Philippine Statistical System, that is, 'Statistics in Action' which simply means a system that is proactive and responsive to developments affecting the country and its products, in terms of statistical data series, used in governance, and in the conduct of our daily lives.
